

The moon and a curious mind

The moon sings to the backdrop of a thousand radiating stars.
Shining light on the bold face of a driven heart.

"What drives us humans apart?"
Soft spoken, he asks the bright rock.

"Is it the greed or the pride that we harbor in our hearts?"
"Or is it the bitterness that we carry from our past?"

Silent, the moon stays afar.
"Another curious mind walks among them"
The moon declares to the stars.

"Your hearts carry immense greed.
That is not the only invisible enemy."

"Division is the seed of resentment, can't you see.
A world divided can't garner peace"

"This is one of the answers that you seek.
The rest is a mystery."